5:30 P.M. Dinner

Quince at the Homestead opened in December of 2006 in a space which has housed its share of renowned fine dining establishments over the past 30 years, including Henry Adaniya's Trio and Leslee Reis' Café Provençal. The restaurant is now owned by David and Holly Reynolds, owners of The Homestead, who have taken the essential elements of delicious food, a comprehensive wine list, and stellar service, and placed them in a welcoming, warm ambiance creating an unpretentious fine dining experience.

In its first year, Quince was named one of the "Top Ten Fine Dining Restaurants in Chicago" by Esquire Magazine's John Mariani. Rave reviews have followed, with a perfect 20-point review from North Shore Magazine's Sherman Kaplan, 4 stars from the Chicago Sun-Times' Pat Bruno, inclusion in TimeOut Chicago's "100 Best Things We Ate" issues, and a Wine Enthusiast Award of Unique Distinction in 2008 from Wine Enthusiast Magazine.
